

Overview:

In this vision statement, I declare the direction I am headed in for the end of 2023. In past vision statements, I focused much more heavily on how I feel at the end of the day. In this vision statement, I talk about the change I want to make. By the end of 2023, I want to be an advocate for a culture change. A leader by example and an inspiration by action. Excelling in my abilities and empowering others to do the same by providing opportunities. Here's to the start of change.

What am I doing?

I am active in creating, finding, learning, and sharing with others. I have a passion for and am successful in creating opportunities for others around me to excel. When the time comes I like to give back to my tribe and empower them to go further. My work is extremely creative and creates change through enormous amounts of true value and generosity. I am teaching and helping others meet their goals while taking things and improving upon them consistently. I'm having an absolute blast creating cool shit. I create and act to light a fire inside of someone else and I lead wholeheartedly by example. Lastly, I have grown my mastermind group from 4 to 40 people in the last 3 years.

How do I feel?

I feel blessed and lucky to live the life that I have every day. Nothing but gratitude for my day to day activities and opportunities. I am relaxed. Everyday feeling more fulfilled and accomplished, but not finished, only just getting started. I am energized and ready excited for everything that waits for me.

What is success?

I don't follow a strict day to day schedule. No 9-5 job, and am working remotely. I have become fully selfless in my work. Providing value for others, vs worrying about my benefit. I have made a positive impact on 100 people's lives in the last 3 years and I have started writing my first book. My ranch house in the fields of Wyoming is in the works of being realized. My life consists of consistently creating and sharing new forms of work and ideas with others around me. I have gotten back into music, writing, and have been productive in each. I take more time for myself daily and focus on making sure I am excelling in all areas of my life, and I have moved west with a stable job and supportive cash flow.

How am I viewed by others?

I am viewed by others as a rule breaker. Where the status quo no longer exists when it comes to success. Demolishing the "right way" to do things. I am seen as a leader by example and an inspiration by action. I am trusted because I am dependable and because of my success in my practice. I am liked by others because my focus sits where important change has the opportunity to excel. Lastly, I am an extremist in servant leadership.

Friends

I see my friends at least twice a year as we are spread across the country. I have dropped toxic relationships and have replaced them with more meaningful, and important ones. I have found my tribe of people I run with to create the value we seek to.

Family

I have become much more family-oriented and have found a deeper connection with my family. I focus on spending more selfless time with them and became much less work focused when it's time to be. Learning to separate the 2 and focus deeply at one at a time. I have also acquired a dog and a horse.

Faith

I have had the chance to explore deeper into my own beliefs, values, and wants to create a list of essential "rules to live by"

Fitness

I exercise 3-5 times weekly and have locked down my diet into a much more healthy and balanced diet. Eating more regularly and controlled.

Finance

I am 3 years out of college and debt-free. I have been investing my income more appropriately, and have become a homeowner.
